COPPINGER'S CORPS.

General Coppinger's force is composed almost entirely of the brigades which were originally selected to participate with General Shafter, and it has the advantage of thorough and compact organization. The organization is as fol-

Second division—First brigade, Colonel J. D. De Russey, Eleventh U. S. infantry and Nineteenth U. S. infantry. Second brigade—General L. H. Carpenter, First Infantry, District of Co-lumbia volunteers: Second infantry, New York volunteers, and Fifth Maryland infantry, volunteers.
Third brigade-Brigadier General R.

H. Hall, Third infantry Pennsylvania volunteers. One Hundred and Fifty-seventh Indiana volunteers, First Onio infantry volunteers and First infantry Illinois volunteers. Third division First brigade-Brigadier General Jacob Klein, First infantry Florida volunteers and Thirty-second

Fourth brigade—Provisional artillery brigade, Brigadier General W. F. Randolph, six light batteries United States artillery and two heavy batteries.

The total strength of this force slightly exceeds 18,000 men. The first division of the Fourth army corps, under General Schwan, which has been removed to Miami, will not accompany the expedition, but will probably be attached to General Lee's corps.

MODER TRANSPORTS

MORE TRANSPORTS.

In addition to the 32 transports utilized by General Shafter, the war department has chartered all other vessels which are available for immediate capacity than any of the American transports heretofore chartered, and as many of these vessels as can be made ready in time will be utilized.

While General Miles intends to accompany this expedition in support of General Shafter, it is not contemplat-ed that he will assume direct com-mand, although possibly one major general, if not two, will be attached to the corps as division commanders. The detail of all additional officers, including several brigadiers, is now under

On the arrival of the force at Santiago, General Miles, by virtue of his position, will assume active command of all the forces in the field, and as soon as the city falls he will undertake in person the leadership of subse quent campaigns, whether against Porto Rico or various Cuban points.

The experiment of a negro regiment wholly officered by negroes is to be tried in the case of the North Carolina regiment, whose colonel will be a colored man, and the only one of that rank in the army. In the immune negro regiments, there will be a mixture, the colonels and other field officers and the captains being white and the lieutenants and other lesser officers black.

It is in this combination of white and colored officers that the color line is expected to cause trouble.

A regular army leutenant, who is engaged in mustering in negro companies for one of the immune regiments, said that the men promised to make good soldiers. "They are all right physically," he said. "Of course, most of them are illiterate and they know nothing about military tactics, but with good officers and careful training they ought to fight well."

Superb Photographs of

The Maine Captain Sigsbee The Officers The Crew General Lee

Most Magnificent Collection of Photographs of This Character Ever Offered to the Country.

The public mind has been so mightily stirred by recent events in Cuba, especially by destruction of the battieship Maine, and her gallant crew, that the demand for information respecting "Uncle Sam's Navy" has become exceedingly great, and this strongly reflects the patriotic sentiment of the country. The Daily Herald, with characteristic appreciation and enterprise has undertaken to supply this loyal desire by issuing a superb portfolio series of photographic views—page size (flx13½ inches), of our battleships, cruisers, torpedo boats, monitors, coast defence boats, gunboats, and auxiliary vessels; also pictures of our navy commanders, drill exercises, big guns, and other interesting views, each illustration being accompanied by text matter giving all needful information of our naval resources. Each portfolio will contain 16 pages of pictures and text matter, printed on heavy plate paper, and bound in colored paper cover, and may be obtained upon the following conditions:
